

I believe that The idea of field-repairability is a good idea.
I do not agree that the FCC should impose this on the manufacturers.
If this is indeed important to a significant number of Amateurs, then the manufacturers will make their products more easily repairable without the FCC getting involved.

Martin Wilcoxson
KB9NXL